Hakatai Adds Subway Style Mosaics to Horizon Series

For Immediate Release: Hakatai, a leading supplier of glass mosaic tiles for architects, interior designers and homeowners, has added another dimension to one of its top selling collections. The modern, sleek Horizon series has increased its design options now with subway style mosaics in five glossy-finished colors. The Horizon series is a sophisticated collection available in a wide range of solid color options, mixed-medium blends of glass, metal and stone, and now 3" x 6" subway glass mosaics in five color styles. All Horizon series mosaic tiles come on mesh-backed sheets in 7/8" x 7/8" sizes, including the new subway glass tiles from Hakatai in White, Graphite, Sage, Sahara and Sky (pictured) with a gloss finish.

The Horizon series of mixed-media mosaic blends, offering blends of glass, glass and metal, and glass and stone, now features 3" x 6" subway style glass tiles. The unique random blends offer the versatility and unlimited color options in glass mosaics from Hakatai, combined with the diversity of texture presented by polished stone, stainless steel, copper mosaics and subway style tiles. The Horizon series of 7/8" x 7/8" tile contains an array of attractive colors, finishes and materials, offering the design community the ability to create with freedom.
